HISTORY tells us that the fighting Gladiators of ancient Rome healed their wounds and sores with precious herbs, oils and balm, which are said to have knitted the damaged tissues together in miraculous fashion.

Though the highly-prized secrets of these古代 healers were lost with the fall of Rome itself, the introduction of the great herbal balm, Zam-Buk, has furnished their true successor. It is so marvellously like them in its origin and in its effect. The touch of Zam-Buk is to-day known the world over.

Wherever there is a cut, burn or scald, a festering

the same with ulcers, ringworms and piles.

Zam-Buk contains No Trace Of Animal Fat or scientifically tested in the chemists' laboratory before the pure herbal essences are refined and blended together in special silver-lined vessels. Never at any time during the process of manufacture is Zam-Buk touched by human hands.

Nothing else known to Science performs such marvellous healing or dispels disease from the tissues so quickly and so thoroughly as Zam-Buk does; it is absolutely

HORATIO BOTTOMLEY AND 'THE STUFF TO GIVE 'EM'

In the course of a severe article on Horatio Bottomley, whose appeal against his sentence of seven years' jail was just been dismissed, Scrutator says in Truth—

Bottomley has more than once related in court the story of his conversion. During the tragedy of Armageddon, he told the jury at the Old Bailey, he became conscious in the depth of soul of a new awakening, and putting all the sordid things of the past aside, he consecrated his whole being to the service of his country and to the men who fought and fell, etc., etc. In his own intimate circle he dropped this hypocritical fiction. Whether the soul-stirring messages which bore his signature were his personal outpourings or—as often happened—those of his back, he did not trouble to conceal his contempt and derision. "That's the stuff to give 'em," he would say, sometimes adding blasphemy which I should not care to print. But the public guilelessly swallowed the stuff, and fondly believed that this incomparable rogue and hypocrite was at last a reformed character. That impression did much to swell the responses to his bond club prospectus, and among the thousands of letters that reached Truth in the past year or so were many from victims who explained that though they knew something of the man's past, they decided to subscribe because his speeches and his artifices seemed to prove that he had turned over a new leaf during the war.

"There were many in the court who did not recognise that statue as it grew, for it did not resemble the familiar lineaments that have dazed the populace for so many years.

It was not an heroic statue. It was the statue of a common criminal who had put the money of other people into his own pocket.

"Illusion is a queer thing. It is like a fog. The judge softly waved it away with a few gestures. In an hour there was no fog of illusion.

Mr. James Douglas gives this graphic picture in the Daily Express of the great Judge who sentenced Horatio Bottomley—

"The personality of a judge is interesting because it is masked by the ritual and ceremony of his office as well as by his wig and robes. As I studied Mr. Justice Salter during the Bottomley trial I began to suspect that his personality was even more carefully veiled than the personality of other judges. I sought in vain for a hint in the inflections of his colourless voice, in the glances of his colourless phrases. I was baffled. He withheld even the ghost of a clue to his mind.

"I am told by his friends that he is known in legal circles as Mr.
Justice Drysalter, and he is assuredly the driest judicial vintage on the Bench. His silence is like the silence of the Sahara. He never uses one word where none would suffice to serve or two where one would suffice.
And yet there is a throb of sadness in his silence. His is a sad and mournful face, a face drained of all emotion and all imagination, a slow, quiet careful face that reveals a slow, quiet careful intellect.

OUR DOINGS IN PALESTINE

The telegraphic news by Reuter yesterday, that a reduction of Winston Churchill's salary had been proposed because of certain doings in Palestine, would be largely unintelligible to those who do not read the Home newspaper regularly. If Reuter ever told us before about "the Rutenberg Concession" he so casually alludes to, we have forgotten it. This was not the first protest by Sir William Johnson-Hicks. He had previously told the Daily Mail all about it, and we were therein enabled to read that "the astonishing nature of the Palestine monopoly granted by the Palestine Government, and the Colonial Office to a Russian ex-revolutionary civil engineer, M. Finbas Rutenberg, who was Kerenky's 'Chief' of Police, is revealed by the terms of the concession." He also wrote a letter to The Times about it, in which he demolished this division on which he was defeated. In part he wrote: "Now we see what we conquered Palestine for; now we know what our soldiers did for, and what our taxpayers are now spending £200,000 a year for; and a suggestion that any country exploiting Palestine should purchase its goods in Britain is a flagrant violation of the whole principle of mandates. If this is so, sooner we get rid of mandates the better. The matter cannot stand where it is. No wonder the Arabs areullen to the verge of revolt. If the House of Commons has any spirit left, it must insist on a full discussion of the whole matter."

To the Daily Mail he put this way: "M. Rutenberg has obtained concessions from the British Administration in Palestine of so comprehensive a nature that they de facto control the complete monoplist Palestine's future development. His documents deal with the Saud, the High Commissioner in Palestine, admitted to a meeting of Members of Parliament that he gave the concession as reported, and he defended the monopoly on the ground that without such monopoly it would be impossible to raise the capital necessary to carry out the work satisfactorily.

It is certain that whoever holds the monopoly of electric light and power in this country about to be developed will have an enormous "pull" with the government. By way of consolation to disappointed concessionaires (banked by our tame and compromised Parliament) someone should call their attention to the question asked by an old-time leper who got a different concession on the River Jordan once. "Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascos, better than all the waters of Israel?" They, like Naaman, may turn and go away in a rage; but after all there may be a practical "up" in it.

PEDDER'S WHARF SCENE

OBJECTING TO PAY FOR PIER SEAT.

J. R. Ritting, a Chinese-American, was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Magistracy this morning with having behaved in a disorderly manner on Blake Pier last night.

Mr. G. R. Hayward, who appeared for the defendant, said that he understood that the police intended withdrawing the charge as the offence was not a serious one.

Inspector Caygill said that was so. He thought that a caution would meet the case.

Outlining the facts, the Inspector said the defendant went on the pier last night and occupied one of the front seats. When the constable on duty on the pier asked the defendant to pay for his seat, he refused, and when ordered to vacate the seat, he created a scene. The defendant was detained at the station for one hour after his arrest before his bail of $25 was forthcoming. In view of that, the Inspector asked for leave to withdraw the charge.

Addressing the defendant, the Magistrate said that he could count himself fortunate that the police were withdrawing. Disorderly conduct was becoming more and more frequent on the pier, and had the case proceeded and the charge been proved against him, he (the Magistrate) would have thought it his duty to fine him heavily as an example to others. As it was, the police did not regard the case as serious and therefore the defendant would be discharged. "But I want you to understand," the Magistrate added, "that you must in future obey the lawful orders of a police constable."

LOCAL AND GENERAL

The Rev. J. Kirk Macdonagh, Minister of the Union Church, expects to take his vacation during August and September.

Included in the s.s. "President McKinley's" passenger list yesterday were Mr. F. M. L. Soares, Mr. and Mrs. W. McMurray and Mr. D. M. Brown.

The body of the quarryman who was reported yesterday to have been drowned while bathing in Misan Bay, Shaukiwan, has been recovered from the harbour by the police.

The Eastern Extension Cable Co. notifies that owing to defects in the Hongkong-Shanghai cable all telegrams to Shanghai and beyond will be subject to considerable delay.

The total output of the Kailan Mining Administration's mines for the week ending June, 24, 1922, amounted to 81,867 tons and the sales during the period to 29,787 tons.

Formerly travel representative of the American Express Co. in Manila, Mr. J. W. Shannon, arrived in Hongkong on the "President Cleveland." Mr. Shannon has joined the Hongkong branch of the Standard Oil Company of New York.

If proposals before the National Conference of the British Legion come into force there is a possibility of the Hongkong branch having to close down, according to the local Secretary, Mr. H. K. Holmes. Two of the proposals aim at the elimination of all foreign branches of the Legion and strong representations against this have been sent home. Another proposal requires that all donations and contributions received shall be forwarded direct to the General Treasurer. While this would not affect Sir Paul Chater's Gift which is in the hands of trustees, it would seriously hamper the work the Legion has been doing in the way of assistance to men in their sad and tragic moments.

The deepest sympathy will be felt here, by a large circle of friends, for Lieut.-Col. Chapman, and his daughter, the wife of Mr. A. E. Wylie, executive engineer of the P.W.D., in their sad and tragic moments.

NO VISIBLE MEANS.

SHIP'S OFFICER CHARGED WITH VAGRANCY.

R. B. Austin, an unemployed ship's officer, was charged before Mr. R. E. Lindell this morning, at the instance of Inspector Blackman, with being a vagrant—having been found in Arenal Street, Wan Chai, without money or any visible means of support.

Defendant: I admit asking a man whom I thought I knew, if he could spare the price of a drink.

Magistrate: You are not charged with begging, only with vagrancy and no occupation.

Defendant: I have a profession. I am a ship's officer.

Magistrate: Then you have work?

Defendant: Not now. I have been out of a job for some time owing to the present state of the shipping in this Colony. There are over 30 unemployed shipping men here at present.

Magistrate: Where do you live?

Defendant: At the Seamen's Institute until two days ago. I had to leave because I was owing a lot of money, and have no means of paying.

Magistrate: I will send you to the House of Detention, and I hope you will get work soon.

Defendant: Thank you, sir.

A PRINTING PROSECUTION.

DEFENDANT DISCHARGED.

Before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Magistracy yesterday afternoon, a well-dressed Chinese was charged with having a printing press at No. 229, Queen's Road West, which had not been registered; and with using the machine for printing results of lottery ticket drawing announcements.

Mr. C. A. S. Russ appeared for the defence and pleaded not guilty.

Detective Inspector Grant with a number of Chinese police raided the house one evening earlier in the week and seized a number of lottery announcements. The printing machine and some type were also found on the premises and taken possession of by the police. One of the men found on the premises pointed out the defendant as the master of the house, and he was arrested.

A witness whom both the prosecution and the defence disowned when called, told the Court that the printing machine was placed on the premises by a man named Chan Cheung who had rented the place to the defendant.

Deciding that there was insufficient evidence to prove that the defendant was the guilty party, the Magistrate discharged him on both counts but made an order for the confiscation of the printing press.

BAD JUDGMENT.

BANISHEE WHO PICKED A DETECTIVE'S POCKET.

Banished two years ago for a term of ten years, after undergoing imprisonment for larceny, a Chinese who returned to the Colony before the embargo had been lifted was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton this morning with having disobeyed the order; and with having picked the pocket of a Chinese detective in Des Voeux Road yesterday.

The detective said that the defendant picked his pocket as he was alighting from a tram-car and stole four $1 notes from his breast pocket. The defendant pressed a newspaper against the witness' chest and simultaneously extracted the money from his pocket with his free hand. The witness seized him on the spot.

Defendant was sentenced to 12 months for returning from banishment, and 6 months for pocket picking, the terms to run consecutively.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ARTHUR CHAPMAN.

News was received here yesterday of the death at Margate, England, as the result of a motor accident, of Mrs. Arthur Chapman, wife of Lieut.-Col. Chapman, V.D., retired Administrative Commandant of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps. Mrs. Chapman was fatally injured and died in hospital.

The deepest sympathy will be felt here, by a large circle of friends, for Lieut.-Col. Chapman, and his daughter, the wife of Mr. A. E. Wylie, executive engineer of the P.W.D., in their sad and tragic moments.

CANTON SITUATION.

SIEGE OF CHEUNGKUO.

As the result of several commands of warships under his command having gone ashore at Whampoa against orders, Dr. Sun Yat-sen is reported to have issued a new order prohibiting all officers and men, under penalty of death, from leaving their ships without permission.

The third siege on the Cheungkuo fort at the mouth of the Whampoa river has commenced. Chan's troops are reported to have surrounded the fort, and heavy fighting is expected at any moment as the attackers have strict orders from General Ip Kui to capture the fort at all costs.

The unsuccessful attempt made to capture the fort on the 2nd inst., resulted in Chan's forces suffering heavy casualties numbering 100 dead and many wounded, and the remainder retreated in disorder. Reports from Canton state that the fort is impregnable, being mounted with 12-inch guns. Mines have been laid on the land side while the front of the fort facing Whampoa river is being guarded by the cruisers.

The Kowloon and Canton Railway bridge at Wuchong which was blown up on Sunday last, has been repaired, and traffic resumed to-day as usual. The down train from Canton arrived at the Tsimshatsui Station this morning in scheduled time.

Commander Young Sik-leung, station commander at Shukwan has cabled to Canton that the 1st Division of the Northern Expedition Army at present on the Kwangtung-Kwangsi border, has severed its connection with Dr. Sun Yat-sen and is returning south to Waichow immediately.

The railway station at Woohung is now being heavily guarded by Chan's troops to prevent further interference with the bridge.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen is reported to have appointed several of his commanders recruiting commissioners in the various southern districts, and thousands of bandits, vagrants and rascals from the Hengshan, Shumak, Sonnyi and Hokkien districts, and the various villages in Whampoa are reported to have been drafted into his Monks (the so-called Citizens' Army) by means of empty pay offers. Chan's troops are attempting to prevent the recruits from leaving the districts, and trouble is expected on the result.

"HAKOZAKI MARU."

NEW N. Y. K. VESSEL HERE.

The local office of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha have sent out invitations to a reception this afternoon aboard their new passenger steamer, the "Hakozaki Maru," which forms one of the "Big Eleven" now maintaining the Company's European service. The new steamer was launched in March this year at Nagasaki, and has a gross tonnage of 10,413.31 tons. Her length is 495 feet, breadth 60 feet and a depth of 37 feet. Built of steel she is driven by two turbines actuating twin screws. She has splendid accommodation for 116 first class and 55 second class passengers.

WORLD THEATRE.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

Justine Johnstone (as Lola) in the "Playing of Broadway," a drama to be screened at the World Theatre from Friday to Monday next, has been selected as the most beautiful woman in New York, and her debut in that city was very encouraging at the moment.

Wherever one looked there appeared to be a revival during the last few months of the militaristic spirit of apparent forgetfulness of the lessons of the war. He took the view that the Russo-German agreement was very encouraging at the moment.

Any girl who follows these recipes faithfully stands an excellent chance of coming home just in time to prepare her trousseau for an October wedding.

Though practically living in the open, the hot-weather girl is required to perform the incompatible feat of keeping her hair, hands, and complexion in good condition for while men fall in love with sun-kissed maidens there is no record of one falling in love with a girl whose nose has peeled, cheeks cracked and whose hands are unsightly.

The art of looking beautiful in a bathing costume is a gift of the gods to some women; it is acquired by a few.

Those who have been neither favoured by nature nor improved by physical culture are advised to refrain from donning a bathing suit in public.

Those who do, wear one must not purchase their costumes recklessly, but plan it so as to hide blemishes and make the most of good points.

Walking along the beach is another accomplishment that is secured only through practice. To speak of "lapping over the sand" sounds poetic, but the girl who advances by moderately long strides is more graceful.

Relying to a question Lord Robert said that although generally speaking the league was supported by clergy of all denominations, there were certain of the clergy of the Church of England who were not very keen on the question. He did not understand that Nonconformists showed themselves more unanimously keen.

WORKING A PASSAGE.

BY ONE WHO HAS DONE IT.

To be left stranded on the shores of a distant foreign country without a penny in your pocket but at an urgent desire, to get home may be romantic, but it is not nice.

That was my predicament a few months ago, and I determined to work my passage.

That is not so simple as it sounds. Four whole days I spent in going round the docks, and I interviewed the officers of the every British ship. The verdict in each case was the same, "We're full up, and, anyway, we don't know you."

It was with something approaching despair, therefore, that I boarded the only other steamer sailing for Europe. She was a Norwegian tramp but the skipper could speak English.

I affected a nautical roll and a Tyro's accent, and told him what I thought was a fairly effective tale of a ship that had sailed without me.

"I do not believe you word," he said candidly; "but my engine-room steward boy is sick. I had to take him home. You do his job. You get free passage and free food, and if you work well I'll give you money at Harry's. Savvies?"

I did, and an hour later I went aboard with my one remaining suitcase. I was wise enough, though, to remove the "Line first class" label from it.

My duties began at once. I had to report to the galley and wash a mountain of greasy pots and dishes. Then I had to clean out the officers' cabin, make their beds, and generally see to their comfort.

We sailed the same evening. At half-past five I had to lay the officers' table for high tea and then carry the meal from the galley. It consisted of soup made with prunes, fresh fish, and salt beef stew. I received my first compliment while I was waiting. The second engineer said I looked clean—which was more than I could say of him.

I soon slipped into the routine of my duties, which were those of a super-servant—“super” only in the latter of quantity of work. I had to scrub floors, wash dishes, make beds, and wait on all the ship's officers except the captain, who had the saloon and a steward all to himself.

On the fifth day out I was sent into the saloon to scrub the floor. There was a tiny piano there, the captain was out of the way, and I could not resist the temptation to open it and revive my schoolboy days with a painful rendering of the “Merry Widow” Waltz. Then I had a shot at Grieg.

The door opened suddenly and the captain came in.

“You d—lie,” he said. “You learn to play ‘Peer Gynt’ in a tramp steamer! Sit down. Go on mit it.”

And I went on with it and other things for nearly an hour; then I had to go and set the officers' table for dinner.

We ran into Barby Dock three weeks after the day to my embarkation. Much to embarrassment the ship's officers all insisted on giving me tips. But the captain called me into his cabin, stood me a drink, and gave me £5 and a scrap of paper that I shall treasure to the end of my days. It was a “character”—the first I have ever had—and it said that I had been sober, had worked well and that my general character is good. Daily Mail.

HINTS TO MILL AND ROUSSEAU.

[Inscription in a copy of J. S. Mill's Principles of Political Economy.]

“O Mr. Mill!
Be still! Be still!
Prove what you will.
I've read my fill;
You make me ill.”

John Stuart Mill.

[Inscription in Rousseau's Contract Social.]

“Was this the book which built the gallows?”

Made me a convert and slew a Queen!

This self-assured impudent pedant,

Was this the book which made a nation free?

What have we gained since then!

The family tree,

Married into the royal blood,

The same mere trifles, I may now assert,

And stand with righteous front and small desire,

With a smile, a nod, a bow,

With a smile,

ODDS AND ENDS.*MAINLY SCISSORS LOOT:*A Zoological Anecdote.

The late Professor Newton, who was one of the outstanding figures of Cambridge for so many years, was a perpetual fountain of amusing anecdote and reminiscence, and Mr. Wollaston's recent biography has revived many memories of his wit. One of the simplest of his stories, and one which pleased him very much, was told in one of his letters. "Here," he said, "is a Zoological anecdote. Mr. G. X. is very ugly and hairy. He went to call at a house a few days ago and found only a little girl in the drawing-room. He began to say something civil to her, but she would not answer. At last he said: 'You don't know who I am?'" "Yes, I do," she replied: "I gave you a bun at the Zoo last Sunday—and you naughty man, you hadn't any clothes on!"

Ye Goddesses?

A New York literary critic, browsing amid a batch of modern novels, calls the following extracts as samples of the alleged complexities of the modern girl:

Her beauty broke on him like some rare flower.
Her breath is like a cloud.
Her eyes were as a dove that sickly smoth.

Her face collapsed as if it were a prickled balloon.

Her hair dropped on her pallid cheeks, like seaweed on an oyster.

Her lips like twilight water.
Her skin as the bark of birches.

Her two white hands like swans on a frozen lake.

Her voice cut like a knife.
Her gown a shiny—(I beg your pardon)—a shimmering of filmy nothingness.

Famous Yankee Cruiser Goes for Scrap.

There are some men-of-war which always catch and hold the sailor-man's attention, no matter how thoroughly mercantile he may be in his tastes and habit. One such has always been the United States belted cruiser "Brooklyn," one of the earliest examples of her type, whose three enormously tall thin funnels are well known all over the Seven Seas. The U. S. Navy Department offered her for sale a short time ago, and suggested that she might well be converted into a merchantman. Happily nobody thought of trying such a scheme, and she has just passed into the hands of a San Francisco firm of ship-breakers. The appraised value was $200,000 dollars, but it is being said that it is hopeless to stand out for the fancy prices put on these old ships, and she was sold for rather less than $7,000 dollars.

American by Post

Walking into an East End post office recently, an American visitor to London said: "I'm lost. I want to get back to my hotel in the West End can you help me?" The girl behind the counter replied: "We can send you by post." "Post!" echoed the man in astonishment. "It's quite simple," the girl rejoined. "Your name and address, please! You will be at express letter post immediately. The charge is 6d. a mile." She "hand-carried" the lost tourist to a small carrier boy, and the two set out in arm for the American's hotel. The American is not the first person to "post" in this way.

The Daily Mail sent by post member of its reporting staff to a station some miles out of London at the object of calling attention to the fact that the British postal authorities do accept human beings as correspondence."

Marries in America.

Settled in nomadic conditions with his employment and business interests, the reasons given why the man in the United States for the months of 1921 largely exceeded the corresponding period of 1920 according to the Save a Life campaign, which aims to reduce the number of deaths by distributing literature and in some kind of a cheap home for a sum of $500 a month during the month of the year as compared with 1,771 last year, and as usual there were over half as many more males as females. The average age of the male suicide in the United States was 43. In the present year over 500 children, double as many as last year, committed suicide, the average age of boys being 16 and girls 15. Many victims were ex-soldiers who lost their balance during the war. The fear of failing in examinations is one of the chief causes of children's violent deaths. With the trying time ahead the Save a Life League appeals to the benevolent to come forward and help an organization which does good work in saving life.

Advertising Politics.

A meeting with the title "Politics and Publicity" was held under the auspices of the London Publicity Club at the Hotel Cecil, Mr. Henry Thornberry presiding. Mr. J. Kirkwood, a member of the club committee, initiated a discussion on "Publicity as the hand-maid of political truth," and urged the need of simple, straightforward publication of the ancient objects of all the political parties, so that every man and woman who had a vote would be able to understand for what they were casting their vote. Newspapers, he said, gave great space to political matters, but some of it might be biased. Every party should have a plain advertisement, officially signed, setting forth its policy, and published widely and continuously. Lord Askwith said that publicity as the hand-maid of political truth would hardly be effective unless there were equal publicity to both sides, or all sides of the same question. Mr. J. Long Sturrock, M.P., contended that politicians were always anxious to get at political truth, and many of them were by no means averse from accepting all the publicity that was showered upon them. He thought advertising was bound to come more and more into the political world as time went on.

What Are the Wild Waves Saying?

"What are the wild waves saying?" This time-honoured seaside question is being taken up seriously by our scientists. All round the coast skilled watchers are observing the character of waves and the manner in which they break, sending the results of their observations to the Meteorological Office at the Air Ministry, Kingsway, W.C. When the waves become quiescent the watcher reports the amount of swell on the ocean surface. It is hoped, by carefully comparing these observations with the strength and direction of the wind, to determine accurately what effect winds of certain strength have on the movements of the ocean, and to ascertain the influence of land nearby. This appears a simple problem—high winds, high seas—but it is not always so. Often there is a heavy sea running when little wind is apparent. This is thought to be due to storms, out in the ocean, far from our shores, which disturb the water, through which the movement is transmitted for vast distances. It is hoped in this way that distant storms may be detected and ships warned. These warnings, officially known as "state of sea," are also of great use to flying boats and naval aircraft.

HAD NO REST FOR WEEKS WITH BABY*Head Almost Full of Big Spots Used to Scratch, Criticized.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR FAMILY.

When you fail to provide your family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Cold and Diarrhoea Remedy at this season of the year, you are neglecting them, as however complaint is sure to be present, and it is especially true if there are children in the family. A dose or two of this Remedy will place the trouble within bounds, and it will save a life or two. We thank all the chemists and druggists for their support.

CAMP COLIC.

No need for suffering from camp colic or diarrhoea. Remedy in the stomach or intestinal region, Chamberlain's Cold and Diarrhoea Remedy will relieve the most severe cases. Get it to-day there will be no regret, and we assure you a life or two will be saved. We thank all the chemists and druggists for their support.

SWASHBUCKER BARRIE*SWARSHES ON HIS BUCKLER.

Sir James Barrie delivered a characteristically whimsical speech when he was guest of the Critics' Circle at the Old Bailey, when George Taylor (G.I.), Sir Frank Murphy (G.S.), labourer, and William Lawson (G.E.), labourer, were charged with being in possession of counterfeit half-crowns with intent to utter them.

Replying to the toast of "The Drama and Sir James Barrie," the guest of the evening with his first words made his hearers laugh.

"Scum," he said, "critics to the left of me, critics to the left of me, into this circle someone has blundered." What I could keep it in the sledge-hammer style. "Barrie gives them Beans" (Evening News), "A Roland for an Oliver" (Westminster), "Swashbucker" (Daily Mail), Barrie swashes on his buckler" (Morning Post). (Laughter.)

He once long ago said to a critic that quite possibly he was mistaken. (Laughter.) That was before he had written plays and when the red blood boiled in his veins. It was interesting because it recorded a decision which he made with regard to critics and a vow he had always kept.

It was about a criticism upon a book of his by Andrew Lang. He attacked the book rather savagely, and also the Scotch in it. He said one word was not Scotch at all. "When I saw that word I knew I had him," said Sir James. "I wrote a letter saying that the word was a very good Scotch word frequently used in the Waverley novels, that I could tell Mr. Lang in which it appeared, but that as he was editing it he would find them all worth reading. (Laughter.) I went elated to bed, but I felt something was wrong and could not sleep.

WORSE THAN SHAKESPEARE.

"I vowed never to answer criticism, and I have kept that vow. A critic I remember very well was one of Shaw, who, in a criticism of one of my plays, began with some such words as: 'This is worse than Shakespeare.' I admit that did annoy me." (Laughter.)

"The drama of the future," said Sir James, "lay with the young men. Hardy, in his new volume of poems, spoke of the knowlessness of young men as being rather offensive. There was a certain amount of arrogance about the young, but the future of the theatre rested with them. They belonged to the little band of people who did not call the play a show—the nice little show." (Laughter.)

They were all getting terribly self-conscious about the drama. It would be wonderful to wake up and find that those who had been talking about it had done something. The best plan would be to have a close time for talking and try to write plays better, act them better, produce and criticise them better; but it could not be as simple as that. (Laughter.)

"Some time ago," Sir James continued, "I discovered the adjective that really applies to me. It is the best and the saddest—unfeeling Barrie. I can see by your faces it at once strikes you all, so that in one matter I seem to be the best critic in the room."

He believed the best play produced in his time, the one he thought about oftener than any other, was Pinter's "Iris." Another little confession he made was that the whole cost of production of his play "Tie Five Found Look" was just under £5.

DUSKY GIRL.

Alluding to the number of islands which occurred in his plays, Sir James said that at present he was living on an island in the Pacific. "My companion," he added, "is a dusky maid composed of abstractions, but not at all delusive. She is composed of little bits of all the golden girls who have played in my pieces and raved them."

"Forbes Robertson retired from the stage to lead us to the island of his silver voice. The dead are there as much as the living; we hardly know one from the other. Sometimes Sir Henry Irving himself may be seen striding along the beach a lonely figure. If Shakespeare were to draw up at the island and offer to sell us some at a penny a yard there would be no bidders. If any of your gentlemen want to get out of your circle come to my island and I will give you gratis suits. We had a great discussion on what we would do with Shaw, but we have decided to let him land."

The judge pointed out that Mr. Henderson was describing positive instances of complaint, and not one word about them had been put to Miss Thomas.

The case was adjourned.

THE COINERS' CODE.*A SMART CAPTURE.

The story of the capture of dealers in counterfeit coins by disguised members of the "Flying Squad" was told at the Old Bailey, when George Taylor (G.I.), Sir Frank Murphy (G.S.), labourer, and William Lawson (G.E.), labourer, were charged with being in possession of counterfeit half-crowns with intent to utter them.

Replies to the toast of "The Drama and Sir James Barrie," the guest of the evening with his first words made his hearers laugh.

HOW THE CALCUTTA SWEEP IS DRAWN.*BY ONE WHO HAS TAKEN PART IN IT.

The drawing of one of the biggest lotteries in the world—the Calcutta Derby Sweep—takes place in the Turf Club's rooms, Calcutta.

As I once "drew" the sweep—in the sense that I did the actual drawing of the winning or otherwise—I am able to draw aside a curtain and describe what has always been, except on one occasion, a secret and solemn rite.

I found myself perched high on the top of a step-ladder, while down below a coolie vigorously turned a handle, the ticket rattling like castanets against the glass sides of the drum containing them as it rapidly revolved.

Each ticket was rolled up and looked like a miniature cartridge, and there were, as usual, about 30,000 of them. (The first prize is usually anything from £20,000 to £100,000 and that is only 40 per cent of the total sum subscribed.)

"Green"—new and bright coin.

"Snide"—bad coin.

"Leads"—packets of eight bad half-crowns.

"Green"—new and bright coin.

The Recorder: You seem to know far more about it than you ought. (Laughter.)

Prisoners were found "Guilty," and the Recorder passed sentence of three years' penal servitude on Taylor, eighteen months' hard labour on Murphy, and six months in the second division on Lawson.

A SPLENDID PICK-ME-UP.*Nurse's Earnest Tribute to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Nurse H. Bradley, of 4, Shale Street, Eastnor, Herefordshire, England, is a very busy woman. Her duties are most exacting, and her greatest asset is good health, for which she pays a glowing tribute to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, regarding them as invaluable in cases of disease.

It is years ago, the state.

"I underwent an operation for an internal complaint. I recovered from the operation but an attack of bronchitis followed. This left me with a nasty cough and a wretched feeling. I felt greatly depressed and was so weak that I cried at not being able to carry on my work. I could not, try as I would, pick up at all.

"Then I received a gift from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a trial, and I began to gradually improve. I continued with the pills, and before long I completely regained my health. This was nearly six years ago, and I am still quite fit.

"I can walk miles and not feel tired in the least. I have the fullest confidence in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for they are indeed a wonderful pick-me-up."

Now is the time to send Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Of dealers, direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 95 Queen's Road, Shanghai, at $1.50 the bottle, 8g—for 6 bottles, post free. For men and women too.

These pills all carried a price of the same value (about £200 that year), and their number is accounted for by the fact that all horses entered are put into the draw.

The whole business takes perhaps an hour and a half, and as Calcutta time is six and a half hours "fast" compared with Greenwich time, it will be all over by the time the newsboys are shouting "All the Winners" in London this evening.—Daily Mail.

The defence was that the dismissal was justified.

Mr. O'Hagan said that Miss Thomas was engaged at £12 a week.

Miss Thomas gave evidence.

Mr. Barrett, for the defence: Were you spoken to by one member of the company about vulgarity? No. At a rehearsal, he suggested I should move my arms in a certain direction. It is untrue that on many occasions complaints were made as to my attitude.

Mr. Barrett (defending): Did the wardrobe mistress complain that you came on the stage improperly dressed? —C. I. R. I. Not at all.

I am going to suggest that your acting was a topic of comment among all the members of the company—that it was such as no self-respecting actress would permit! That is not true.

IRELAND'S CIVIL WAR

LONDON, July 4th.—The last stand in Dublin of the irregulars is now occurring, though the battle continues with varying intensity. The Hamman hotel is on fire and the garrison has surrendered. The National forces, in the afternoon recaptured O'Connell Street Post Office, taking prisoners twenty irregulars. Later an eighteen-pounder gun was brought up and bombarded the remaining positions of the irregulars, who are isolated in three hotels, the Gresham, the Granville and the Crown. These hotels were shelled from a range of 150 yards, partially wrecking them.

The Countess Markievka, leader of a group of women snipers, has been reported as captured, but there is no information as to whereabout she is. Valera, who is thought to be hiding in the city, is still at large.

A National officer has arrived at Croydon for the purpose of proceeding to Dublin in a Bristol flying-plane, but it is doubtful if the irregulars will hold out much longer.

THE USE OF RUBBER FOR ROADS.

LONDON, July 4th.—The report for the year 1921 of the Rubber Roadways Limited, a company formed under the auspices of the Rubber Manufacturers Association, to foster the use of rubber for roads—states that production of a roadway laid at Southwark eighteen months ago, with rubber-sheathed vulcanized metal plates, continues satisfactory. A less expensive method of attachment of the rubber has been evolved and an experimental area will be laid as soon as possible, although it must be a considerable time before the advantages of rubber pavements are fully demonstrated.

It is our hope that experiments will lead to the utilization of rubber to pave streets where silence of traffic is an important consideration.

EXPORT DUTY ON PALM KERNELS.

LONDON, July 4th.—Opposition leaders greeted the announcement by Major E. F. L. Wood in the House of Commons, on Monday, that Mr. Churchill had decided to abolish the West African export duty on palm-kernels on the ground, first, that the colonies concerned had concluded that the duty had proved to be revenue producing and had hampered their commercial recovery; second, the largest exporters and business firms in Britain, who were concerned in the trade, concurred in the object of the duty, namely, diversion of trade in nutriment products to Britain had been accomplished.

Palm-kernel manufacture is now firmly established in Great Britain, and Liverpool is now the chief market for palm-kernels instead of Hamburg. Moreover, in regard to the Government's obligation to the kernel-crushing industry, the latter had decided to leave the Government's hands free, and to concern in the abolition of the duty.

AUSTRALIAN SEAMEN'S STRIKE.

MELBOURNE, July 4th.—After a meeting of the Seamen's Union in Sydney, it was announced that members will be permitted to offer their services on the Commonwealth liner "Lang's Bay." The management of the Commonwealth line decides that it will be from four to six weeks before the vessel is re-commissioned.

MAXIMILIEN HARDEN'S ASSAULTANTS.

BERLIN, July 4th.—It is stated that Maximilién Harden's assailants belong to some circles as the man suspected of complicity in the assassination of Dr. Rathenau, for which the police of Altonaen, in East Prussia, have effected a further arrest.

GERMAN REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION.

BERLIN, July 4th.—The mass demonstration on behalf of the Republic held throughout Germany, generally passed off quietly. There were minor disturbances at Cologne, Magdeburg, Stuttgart and Zittau.

PROFESSOR GILES'S GREAT WORK FOR CHINA.

LONDON, July 4th.—Mr. Chao Hsin Chin (Chinese Chargé d'Affaires) in proposing a vote of thanks to Lord Chalmers, Chairman of the Royal Asiatic Society, on the occasion of the presentation of the triennial gold medal to Professor Herbert Giles, Professor of Chinese at Cambridge, eulogized Professor Giles' great work on behalf of China, and declared that there were at present far too few students of the Chinese language; therefore ancient Chinese literature, history and philosophy must largely remain an unknown field.

He said he was of the opinion that one of the chief difficulties was the inability of students, who were obliged to earn their own living, to simultaneously devote themselves whole-heartedly to the study of the language of the Chinese people. He was therefore most keenly interested in the suggestion that the British Government would earmark certain sums of money derived from the Far East for promoting Anglo-Chinese education, and that a better understanding between the peoples of the East and the West.
